It is gratifying to learn from the same authority that the Princess Pcsir, who was carried off some years ago by the Mussulman insurgents (P or joined them) of that fateful Thursday he set out in state for has been recovered! In the Court of the United States Consulate General, on the 5th inst., O. B. Bradford, late Vice-Consul-General, presented two notitions in person, respecting the charges brought against him in October and November of last year, and on account of which he is still suffering imprisonment. The first charge was that of liaving Solated the Postal Laws of the United States by Dr. D. J. Macgowan to General Myers. of San Francisco, and mailed on or about the 1st fanury, 1877. Petitioner now applied for a new trial, on the ground that he was now able to prove had duly received the said letter and had remained in possession of it, that a copy of the said letter in Dr. Macgowan's handwriting, was in the petitioner's possession on the 26th day of March 1877, and that the statement he (petitioner) made on the trial as to how the copy of the letter fel into his hands, was admitted by Dr. Macgowan to be true. The Court refused to grant a new trial, on the ground of want of jurisdiction, as, in criminal cases, application for a new trial must be made before passing sentence.—The second petition asked for a bill of particulars regarding certain other alloged charges against the poti tioner, which he said had been promised but never supplied to him, and he had therefore been unabl referred .- The Court granted this application. An important case to shipmasters was heard at the Police Court on the 6th inst. The master of the British barque Rutlandshire was summoned by Mr. W. H. Tapp, H.B.M.'s Registrar of Shipping, for neglecting to serve out to his crew an ounce of lime juice per day, during the passage from London to Shanghai. The vessel was 199 days on the voyage, and when she arrived eleven of the crew out of seventeen exclusive of the captain and two mates, were suffering from sonry; four were so had that they were taken out of the ship, and it was expected that two of them would not be able to return to her. main cause of the disease was attributed the short allowance of lime juice issued to the crew during a lengthened voyage-in conjunction with the bad quality of the water and cuit, the deficient sanitary arrangements of the houses in which the crow were berthed, and the continual exposure of their bedding and clothing to wet during heavy weather. The vessel was well supplied with stores, including fourteen cases of lime juice: but about half of these were to the crew per diem. The captain's explanasteward to give out the lime juice, and took it for granted that he gave the men the proper quantity. Mr. Mowat told him it was the imperative duty of ship masters to see that the proper quantity of lime juice was given to the men daily, and he could not do otherwise than conclude that he (the captain) was responsible for the illness of the men. have not, so far, found eager buyers, but we hope as the season advances there will be an improvement in the demand, seeing that the stocks remaining from the autumn are inconsiderable. Produce rates kept up unusually during the winter, and much smaller contracts were made than in fermer years. The Taotai has made a journey to the capital (Moukden), to ascertain the extent of the poppy growth, and is, we hear, really alarmed at the loss of revenue consequent on the decrease of the "Indian imports." potition is to be addressed to the Emperor, with the view of stopping the native cultivation; and possibly the tax on the latter may be raised, as at present such tax is far less prohibitive than what Indian drug pays .- Rates for experts are somewhat lower than during part of the winter. The steamship Namoa obtained a charter to Tientsin at 36 Mexican cents per picul. A fair demand exists for tonnage to Tientsin, and for Swatow the offers are 34 to 37 cents per picul: Shanghai, per steamer, 10 cents per picul.

THE TREATY OF SAN STEFANO. From the Daily News of the 7th alt, brought out by Cantain Marshall, of the Loudoun Castle, we extract the following particulars of the above.

CONSTANTINOPLE March 5th. The treaty concluded between Russis and Turkey at San Stefano, on the 3rd inst, bears the title of Preliminaries of Peace, and contains 29 articles, the substance of which is stated on good authority to be as follows:---The opening articles of the treaty relate to Montanegro, Servia, Roumania, and Bulgaria. The independity to be paid by Turkey is fixed at 1.410.000,000 roubles, 1.100,000,000 of which are represented by dessions of territory in Asia. Nothing is yet fixed concerning the period and conditions of payment of the remaining 310,000,000 roubles. No guarantee is stipulated.

Balgarion tributes, or of a cossion of the Turkish province shall be occupied by a large Russian fleet. The treaty states that the Russian and Turkish Governments shall come to an underetanding subsequently upon the mode of pay-ment. Pirot remains Bulgarian territory. Servia comprises Silnitza, Novi-Bazar, and Wranja. Montenegro includes Antivari, Polyoritza, Spuz. and Nicsios. All the Bulgarian fortresses or to be demolished, and no Turkish garrisons will remain in Bulgaria. A military road is to be established for the Turkish post and telegraphs and the passage of Turkish troops, who will not, however, be allowed to make any stay in the country while massing through Mussulmans may return to Bulgoria. If within two years hence they shall not have settled all affairs connected with their property, the latter.

will be sold for the benefit of the widows and orphans' fund. The arrears of taxes in Bosnia and Herzegovina are not to be claimed. The revenue until 1880 is to be applied to indemnify the sufferers by the insurrection, and to movide for local needs. In case of disputed claims, Aus. trian and Russian commissioners will act as arbitrators. The navigation of the Shuits is declared free for merchant vessels, both in time of peace and war 50,000 Russian troops consisting of six divisions of infantry and two of cavalry, will occurry Bulgaria for about two years, until the formation of a Bulgarian militis, the strength of which is to be fixed later between Russia and Turkey. The Russian army of occupation will preserve its communications with Russia, both by way of Roumania and by the Black Sea ports of Varna and Bourgas, and the necessary depots will be established. The Russian troops during their stay will be maintained at the expense of the country. The war naterial in the Bulgarian fortresses, including Shumla and Varna, remains the property of the Porte. Batoum, Ardahan, Kars, and Bayazid, with the territories comprised, are neded to Russia. A treaty is to be concluded between Turkey and Roumania. The latteris authorised to make her demand for indemnity direct to the Porte. No indomnity for Montenegro or Service is stipulated. Servians and Montenegrins travelling or established in Turkey will be subject to the Ottoman laws in so far as the latter are not contrary to international law. Russian. Turkish, and Bulgarian Commissioners will determine the amount of the Bulgarian tribute according to the average octual revenue. The reforms stipulated at the first sitting the Conference will be similed in Bosnia and Herzegovina. Thessaly and Epirus will have an organization similar to that of Crete in 1868. No mention is made of Greece or Crete in the treaty The privileges of the Monks of Russian origin at Mount Ather are maintained. No mention made of the occupation of Erzeroum or Trabizond but the Russian troops have the right to embark at Trebizond on returning to Russia. The period fixed for the Russian evacuation of Turkish territory in Asia is six months. The evacuation of Turkish territory in Europe will commence immodiately, and be completed within three months. The European Commission for the navigation of the Danube preserves its rights intact. The Ports engages to re-establish the navigation at its own expense, and to indemnify private persons who have suffered loss by the war. This double charge, which will not amout to less than 500,000 frames, will be deducted from the sums due from the Commission to the Porte. Pending the conclusion of a new treaty of commerce between Russia and Turkey, the present tariffs remain as before the war. Turkey undertakes to settle in a conciliatory spirit all actions between Russian and Turkish subjects, and execute immediately all legal judgments slready delivered. The fronty declares that Russia, not wishing to annex territory, receives the Dobrudscha, in order to cede it to Roumania in exchange for the Roumanian portion of Bessarubin. It is stipulated that the question of the brought unopened to Shanghai, only twelve Turce-Persian frontier shall be settled within a cunces, instead of seventeen, having been given brief period. The treaty is to be ratified within tion was to the effect that he left it entirely to the distely obligatory. No mention is made of the ratification of the treaty by a Congress, nor of These pressing claims cannot be dismises, and have been fain to cherish hopes of better days, but all promises must be broken, all hopes destroyed if saything like the propositions of the Russians are to be embodied in the Treaty. of Peace. The Turks could never raise one-tenth of the sum demanded, so that the Powers will go into the Conference, if the Conference should ever meet, with a prospect of having their concurrence required for such a gigantic scheme of spoliation as the civilised world was nover asked to acquiesce in or to endure..... It is conjectured that the greater part of the pecuniary claims is "a diplomatic cover " for the demand that Turkey shall surrender Betoum Bayazid, Kars, and the adjoining territory, and if so, she has thus prepared a disagreeable subject for the Conference to discuss and split upon. Austria is plarmed and not naturally, by the and no mention is made of the Egyptian and definition of Bulgaria, and the proposal that the army for two years. The Ottoman Porte would be left with only two strips of Roumelin bordered by the Sea of Marmora and the Black Sea Bosnin and Herzegovina being out off from Constantinople could not be retained, and their probable fate is scarcely a matter of doubt. All that is valuable of European Turkey would be absorbed in the new Principality, and as the nominal tribute to the Sultan is to be approprinted under the guise of interest for a further indemnity of £40.000,000, the Sultan and his Government would become more puppets, with the means of existence denied them. cloud hanging over it which will require to be cleared; the only thing certain at present is that

The paragraph relating to the Straits has a Russian trade is not to be interrupted, and no bstacles are to be thrown in the way of Russia obtaining supplies and prosecuting her commercial enterprises in the South thought at war with other European Powers. The Turkish fleet as well as the Turkish territory was coveted; but the original demand is said to have become reduced since Lord Derby appeared to be in earnest in remonstrating with the Government of the Czar; and it has been remarked in the kindly spirit garded in England, that "it would be charitable to onclude that the Russian terms of peace have received their present form in order to leave room for a reduction of their severity, and thus give the victor the alr. of acting with moderation;" but allowing for a very great reduction, the terms would still be preposterous. The requirement of the Egyptian tribute as part of the security to be exacted by Russia, is another unexampled instance of audacity. Turkey has no right to offer the guarantee of that tribute, for the simple reason that it is already the security for certain loans. "To let the Egyptian tribute be pledged to Russia would simply be to make Egypt the tributary of Russia. But that can not be. If the Khedive is desirous of finding a new master he must go clsowhere than to St.

The Russian conditions—if there be peace at in the meaning of them-imply not only the min of Turkey, but the self-abasement of all Egrope. Never was so great an enterprise devised and promulg sted as now gleans through the unveiled designs of the Czar. The blessed humanity which imposed upon Mr. Gladstone and others, the Christian enthusiasm which was the only motive for Russian intervention, and the rescue of oppressed Bulgarians from the domination of ornal task masters, are pleas which. having served their purpose, are let go to the winds. The book of Mercy is thrown behind camp fire, the Sword is the weapon now, and the Czar, with one foot in Europe and the other in Asia bids those who would take it from him make the attempt if they dare. The situation is a sad one to contemplate; and it is feared there are werse evils coming than have yet transpired in this war of heartless and reckiess ambi-

EUSSIAN TROPHIES. According to reports which have appeared in the Russian military paper the Czar's trophies during the late campaign consist of 27 Pashas and 145,000 officers and men, comprising 12 Pashas and 28,000 men captured in Asia, and 15 Pashas and 117,000 men taken in Europe. More than 18,000 horses were captured in Armenia and 24,000 in European Turkey. The number of guns taken in Europe amount to 606; in Asia. the number of tents, 20,000; rifles of various systems. 180,000 : small arms. vatachans. and pistolets belonging to the irregular cavalry, 200,000 : silver-mounted poignards and sabres used by the Circussians, 13,000; besides stores of gunpowder and a stock of ready-made cartridges exceeding half a million rounds.

Russia is said to have in Turkey and Roumania 1 400,000 men and 1,464 guns. In Russia itself there are yet 150,000 men and 600 guns; beyond this there is a reserve of 72,000 men, with 224 guns. The Russian army in Asia Minor amounts AUSTRIA AND THE TERMS OF THE THEATY. If the accounts given should turn out in the main to be correct, the differences between Austria and Russia are likely to be creater than could have been anticipated even from the peace preliminaries. In these even there seemed enough to threaten Austrian interests, but the provisional stipulations were vague and elastic, and much depended on the way in which the framework would be filled up. If the Russians really mean to accomplish this in the manuer stated, the worst apprehensions will be realised. The objections raised by Austria were not against autonomy being given to Bulgaria, which would satisfy all the legitimate aspirations of the Christian population, but against an organisation which, directly or indirectly, would establish Muscovite rule in the future principality, and thus make Russia mistress of the Lower Danube and of Constantinople. This, however, is what will be the case if a semi-independent State is to be created on the right bank of the Danube. ertending on one side to Widdin, on the other to Adrianople, and on the third down to the Ægean: and if a Russian Commission, backed by an army of occupation, is to superintend and organise the proposed reforms. In these circumstances the new principality to all intents and purposes would become little more than a Russian dependency. As it is, indeed, the reconstructive process under Prince Tsherkassky is being carried out entirely on the Muscovite model. All the posts in the administrative system are being filled by Russians, or else by Bulgarians who have received their education in Russia

Russia has been introduced as the official language. An order has been already issued for the organization of 70 battalions, 12 squadrons, of which will be formed by the Bulgarian Legion, the Russian Army will furnish officers and non-commissioned officers, and the language of Bosnia, while the Emperor is no less opposed of command will be Russian. If this wholesale system of Russification such as has been already begun is allowed to continue for some years, the new Bulgarian State will have become to all intents and purposes a dependency of the Czar. With such a State extending from Widdin down to the Dobrudscha on the right bank of the river, and the restituted portion of Beasarabia on the other. Russia would really be mistress of the Lower Danube. It is against such it may be proposed to the Congress or Conference, an autonomous Bulgaria that the Vienna Cabinet bas always protested; nor can Russia in any way plead ignorance of its views, for at the very beginning of the war, when neutrality was declared could not view with indifference the establishment, of the Danube, informing the German Government then, and repeatedly since, of this her notification; and from the raplies received by the Vicans Government it was quite justified in trusting that its objections would be taken into account, Another point on which the Government has not been less explicit was that of an aggrandizement of Servia in the direction of following sketch of the position of affairs from Bosnia, and the reasons alleged in support of this objection seemed to be so fully appreciated by the Russian Government that the latter have all along been urging Austria to cooupy Bosnia and Herzegovina, as the best guarantee against any attempt that could be made towards increas-
